Insight into Implicit Bias

GOOD CHOICES REQUIRE CLEAR THINKING

We all have biases that impact our decisions at work. How can we make the best decisions for our organizations if we are not even aware of the forces that dominate the choices we make? From hiring to promotion to teamwork, our choices reflect our thinking in how we interact with one another.

Being biased isn't an accusation; it's just a fact of being human and the result of a lifetime of social conditioning. Acknowledging biases takes time and is often an uncomfortable process which requires patience and understanding. However, when we are aware of our biases and watch out for them, we are more likely to be deliberate and thoughtful in our decision-making.

At Leap Into Leadership, we believe that we are more effective as individuals, organizations and communities when we are aware of the impact of our individual and collective behaviors that can be filtered through implicit biases.

Contact Leap Into Leadership to discuss how we can help you create a culture where everyone can do their best and bring their authentic selves to work every day.

THE QUESTION IS NOT "DO WE HAVE BIASES?"
BUT RATHER "WHICH BIASES DO WE HAVE?"

Our implicit bias workshop goes beyond just raising awareness of our biases that may be holding our organizations back from achieving their full potential.

WITH CLEARVISION TRAINING, YOU GET:

Awareness of how bias is formed and its impact on individuals, groups and organizations.

Scientific based approaches that help employees make decisions more clearly and consciously.

Specific tools that address systems and structures to support diversity and inclusion goals.

Employees who are re-engaged with their personal purpose and mission.

An enhanced sense of teamwork and community.
